FALL 2019 CLASSES

AUGUST 26 – OCTOBER 25, 2019

---

MONDAY

I Think, Therefore I Am: What is Consciousness?

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

6 weeks: September 9, 16, 23, 30, October 7, 14
8 – 20 students

Is consciousness the product of an immaterial mind or is it produced by biological activities of the brain? Is it unitary or a collection of many brain processes? Can only humans be conscious? Is reality a construct of consciousness or does it have an independent existence? These are some of the questions the class will address in the context of what we know about how our brains work.

Instructor: Robert Gallon is a clinical and forensic psychologist, a musician, and a retired tuba player with the Bangor Symphony Orchestra. He taught psychology at Vassar College and at Thomas Jefferson Medical School. He has also taught at the College of the Atlantic, and he has taught many classes for Acadia Senior College. Bob promises not to get too technical.

Improving Decision Making and Public Policy: Lessons from Behavioral Economics

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

5 weeks: September 9, 16, 23, 30, October 7

8 – 15 students

Why do we sometimes fail to act in our own best interests? Traditional economic models of decision-making assume that people make decisions in a “rational” manner. These models work well – until they don’t. This course provides an introduction to a relatively new field – Behavioral Economics – that draws on the fields of economics, psychology, and neuroscience, to provide a better explanation of what influences the choices we make. Governments and companies all over the world are now using behavioral insights to design and improve their policies (often called “nudging”). This class will examine these efforts – successes, lessons learned, and ethical issues. There is no math prerequisite.

Instructor: Sheila Nataraj Kirby (PhD, Economics) was a senior economist at RAND, a non-profit think tank, for over 30 years. She served as a Senior Fellow at NORC at the University of Chicago from 2012-2017. Her two primary research fields were education and defense and she has published extensively in both areas. Sheila held a joint appointment as an adjunct professor of economics and public policy at The George Washington University where she taught economics, statistics, and public policy at the graduate level for 25 years.

How Non-Profits Work

1:00 – 3:00 p.m.

4 weeks: September 9, 16, 23, 30

5 – 20 students

You may volunteer for, participate in, or donate to a non-profit but know little about it. This class will examine how this third sector is not quite a government and not quite a for-profit enterprise. How can the NRA, a union, a food bank and a credit union all be non-profits? Each participant will look at a chosen non-profit to see how it is managed and what its IRS 990 reports reveal. The class will discuss whether non-profits should be tax-exempt, whether high overhead is a concern for donors, and why non-profit executive compensation has raised ethical, if not legal, questions. The class will also examine the role of non-profits in politics.

Instructor: Carolyn Ball has a PhD in political science, and is a professor emeritus at the University of Southern Maine Muskie School of Public Service. Carolyn has taught public and non-profit management for 25 years and is currently teaching graduate courses in performance measurement and local government.

TUESDAY

131 / 116: The 131 Women of the New (116th) Congress

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

6 weeks: August 27, September 10, 17, 24,

October 1, 8

10 – 16 students

NOTE: there will be NO CLASS on September 3.

This class will investigate and discuss the prospects for bi-partisan cooperation among the 131 women in the newly elected 116th Congress. Each participant will closely follow the speeches, daily calendars, legislation advocated, and constituent services of two women - one Democrat, one Republican. Using this focused research, class members will initially deliver summary introductions of their “pair.” Subsequently, the class will analyze the chances for collaboration on major national issues, including modernizing American capitalism through universal child care and pre-K, an annual wealth tax, clean energy and infrastructure restoration, constraining giant corporations, and increasing workers’ bargaining power. The class will also consider their evolving views on major issues such as climate change, foreign policy, criminal justice reform, firearms legislation, and LGBTQ rights, among others.

Instructors: Jim Clunan, Princeton, AB, History and Biology; George Washington University, Public Administration. Jim served two years in the U.S. Army and 32 years in the Foreign Service at eight overseas posts and at the State Department in Washington, where he served for two years on the staff of a 12-term Congressman. Jim taught Strategy and Policy at the Naval War College. With his wife, Dorothy, Jim instigated the establishment of the Acadia Senior College.

Kathleen McQuaid holds a PhD in political science, an MA in international relations/comparative politics, and a BA in history/Asia studies from Temple University. During her teaching career, she offered courses across multiple sub-disciplines, including Women and Politics and Women and the Law. She is now Professor of Political Science Emeritus living on MDI.

Site: St. Mary's Episcopal Chapel, 5 Kimball Road, Northeast Harbor.

Introduction to Croquet

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

4 weeks: September 10, 17, 24, October 1

6 – 8 students

Croquet is a game that can be played equally well by the young and old. Students will learn how to hold the mallet, the proper stance and swing, and how to shoot wickets. The rules of both American 6 Wicket Croquet and Golf Croquet will be taught. By the end of the first class, students will have played a round of Golf Croquet. By the end of the course, students will also be playing American 6 Wicket Croquet.

Students will be invited to use the court outside of class time to practice and play.

Instructors: Fran Martin and Tina Hinckley are both experienced croquet players who have experience teaching this course at the beginner level.

Site: Manset Croquet Court, 14 Shore Road, Southwest Harbor.

Prelude to the 36th America's Cup

1:00 – 3:00 p.m.

5 weeks: September 3, 10, 17, 24, October 1

8 – 20 students

Although the America's Cup is no longer the "Longest Winning Streak in the World," the excitement remains as activities related to the 36th American's Cup competition will begin this year and culminate with final races in the Hauraki Gulf, off Auckland, New Zealand, in March 2021. This course will focus on the history of the Cup, and will introduce students to past race sites, vessel classes and designs, the formation of syndicates, and the personalities of famous defenders, challengers, designers, and skippers.

Instructors: Nat Fenton is a graduate of Bowdoin College and Cornell University School of Law. He has taught ASC courses on Lincoln, Mandela, and Civil Rights. Nat shares his strong interest in sailing and the America's Cup with Michael Hastings.

Mike Hastings studied at Tilton School, Bowdoin College and George Washington University. In his professional life, he worked on Capitol Hill as a foreign policy specialist, in Africa as a development aid administrator, and in Maine as director of an organization that promotes research on sustainable aquaculture. Mike recently retired as Director of Sponsored Programs at the University of Maine where he was also adjunct faculty in the Maine Business School.

Site: Machias Savings Bank, 2nd floor, 96 Cottage Street, Bar Harbor.

WEDNESDAY

Geology of MDI

9:30 a.m.

7 weeks: September 4, 11, 18, 25, October 2, 9, 16
10 – 18 students

NOTE: Class meets for approximately one hour followed by (optional) 2 to 3 hour field trips.

The geology of MDI will be explored from when MDI was part of the Gander terrane attached to another continent, through the development of MDI as a large volcano, to when glaciers sculpted the present landscape. Each session will start with a lecture and question period from 9:30 to 10:30 or so. Then from 10:30 to Noon or so, the class will take a field trip to examine the earth material and landform evidence for the geologic evolution of MDI. The lectures may be attended without going on field trips.

Instructors: Duane Braun holds a PhD from Johns Hopkins University and was a Geosciences Professor at Bloomsburg University, PA, where he taught Environmental and Physical Geology, Geomorphology, Hydrogeology, and Field Geology. He also mapped the glacial deposits of northeastern Pennsylvania for the state Geologic Survey, taught Geology for ASC, and revised the geologic maps of MDI for the Maine Geologic Survey.

Ruth Braun holds a MSc degree from Johns Hopkins University. She taught junior and senior high school science. She also taught Environmental Geology, Physical Geology, and Historical Geology at Bloomsburg University, and has taught Geology for Acadia Senior College.

Ruth and Duane co-authored Guide to the Geology of Mount Desert Island and Acadia National Park, 2016.

Site: The Undercroft of St. John Episcopal Church, 315 Main Street, Southwest Harbor.

The Sources of Constitutional Conflicts

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

5 weeks: August 28, September 4, 11, 18, 25

5 – 16 students

Constitutional law conflicts significantly affect the resolution of public policy issues. This class will explore the history and sources of current constitutional issues in order to provide a foundation for racial or informed analysis. Among the issues to be examined are gerrymandering for political advantage, the Electoral College, the unitary executive, the Second Amendment, unenumerated constitutional rights, who wins when rights clash, the status of religious rights, impeachment, the emoluments clause and affirmative action.

Instructor: Richard Cohen is a retired judge of the NJ Superior Court, Appellate Division. He does not claim constitutional expertise, but he is concerned with the issues presented and has studied them from an appellate judge's point of view. In the Fall of 2018, he presented an ASC course in American Constitutional History.

The September 18 session will be taught by David Einhorn, retired general counsel of the Jackson Laboratories, who has taught a variety of ASC courses.

Site: Common Room in St. John Episcopal Church, 315 Main Street, Southwest Harbor.

Selected Topics in Modern European History

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

6 weeks: August 28, September 4, 11, 18, 25, October 2

10 – 20 students

This course will discuss the transformative effects of five “revolutions” – scientific, technological, economic, political, and social. The class will examine the paths from late medieval to modern, autocracies to democracies, reformers to revolutionaries, and their successes and failures. Particular focus will be on 17th century England, 17th and 18th century France, and 20th century Russia in the context of European advancement as a whole.

Instructors: Harald Paumgarten received a BA from the University of Pennsylvania and an MBA from the University of California, Berkeley. He has been an adjunct professor of finance at Columbia University, Baruch College, St. John’s College, and Howard University. Harald’s business career includes senior positions at Deutsche Bank, HSBC Funds, WP Carey, UBS, and Florida Capital Corporation, among others.

Michael Blythe was educated at Rugby School and Balliol College, University of Oxford. After service as a captain in HM Royal Marines, he had a long career in deep water oil field development in the North Sea and Nigeria. He has taught Acadia Senior College courses on the history and technology of offshore oil exploration and drilling and on the French Revolution.

Site: Mellon Room, Northeast Harbor Library, 1 Joy Road, Northeast Harbor.

Beginning Italian: Level 2

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

7 weeks: October 23, 30, November 6, 13, 20, 27,
December 4

5 – 10 students

NOTE: class sessions start and run later than the regularly scheduled Fall term dates.

This class will build on basics learned in the ASC Beginning Italian Level 1 class. Students will develop knowledge and use of present, future and past tenses and prepositions and pronouns. The class stresses reading and speaking abilities, while developing a broader appreciation of Italian culture. Prerequisite: knowledge of basic Italian grammar, such as simple use of the present, articles, and adjectives as well as basic vocabulary; ability to speak in simple phrases and pronounce accordingly.

Instructor: Hank Schmelzer studied Italian for 12 years at the Berlitz School, Boston, and has traveled extensively in Italy during some 70 visits. Hank has taught several ASC Italian classes as well as teaching independently. Hank's favorite area in Italy is the Dolomites, where he and his wife have spent much time, including two winters. He daily reads Italian writers from Pirandello to Eco and popular Italian novels and detective stories, as well as daily news. His career was in financial services in Boston, starting as a player and becoming president of a small mutual fund company. Hank was a Fellow at Harvard's Kennedy School and also served as president of the Maine Community Foundation.

Site: Clark Room in Southwest Harbor Public Library, 338 Main Street, Southwest Harbor.

A Close Reading of the Analects of Confucius

1:00 – 3:00 p.m.

6 weeks: September 11, 18, 25, October 9, 16, 23
10 – 15 students

NOTE: there will be NO CLASS on October 2.

The class will closely read in English and discuss the most important text of the Confucian school of thought, incorporating a close examination of the Chinese text as well. Knowledge of Chinese is neither required nor expected, only a willingness to consider what it can reveal about the English translation.

Instructor: Hugh Clark retired after 35 years as Professor of History and East Asian Studies at Ursinus College, a non-sectarian liberal arts college outside Philadelphia. He specialized in the socio-cultural history of middle period China, regarding which he has published numerous academic articles and three books. He taught Chinese philosophy to undergraduates many times and he now looks forward to benefitting from the informed and thoughtful approach of adults.

Site: Library in St. Saviour's Episcopal Church, 41 Mount Desert St., Bar Harbor.

The Cubism of Pablo Picasso and Georges Braque

7:00 – 9:00 p.m.

5 weeks: September 4, 11, 18, 25, October 2

6 – 25 students

Picasso and Braque did not intend their paintings of 1907-1914 to be incomprehensible. They were meant as daring experiments – some less successful than others – which the two young artists hoped would lead them to modern, flexible, and individualized replacements for what they perceived as the tired conventions of the 500-year-old Western pictorial tradition. This course will examine the gradual invention by Picasso and Braque of the revolutionary mode of artistic expression that became known as Cubism. We will consider the art historical impasse that drove them to revolution and then trace the protracted process of trial and error by which they eventually achieved a completely new formal language. This survey will provide students with sufficient knowledge of the novel vocabulary and syntax of Cubism to be able to “read” even the most abstruse Cubist compositions.

Instructor: Mollie McNickle (Wheeler) holds a PhD from the University of Pennsylvania. Specializing in modern art in Western Europe and America, she has previously taught courses on Cubism at the University of Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Mollie has also lectured at St. Joseph’s University, the Toledo Museum of Art, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and the Barnes Foundation. She taught an ASC course on Cezanne last fall.

Site: Harbor House, 329 Main Street, Southwest Harbor.

THURSDAY

A Brief History of the Dismal Science (Part 2): Value – The Original Problem of Economics

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

4 weeks: September 26, October 3, 10, 17

5 – 20 students

How are “things” valued and how are prices determined? Why are diamonds more valuable than water? This core question of economics has fascinated philosophers, scientists and economists for centuries and is still debated today. This class explores the evolution of theories of value beginning with Aristotle and The Scholastics (St. Thomas Aquinas), through the classical period (Adam Smith, et al.), the “Marginal Revolution” (Jevons, Walras, et al.), and the highly mathematized market theory (Arrow, Debreu, Samuelson) that dominates much of economics today and the value of which is the subject of a great deal of debate (no math background required!). Finally, the class will try to decide if economics is more akin to science or religion.

Instructor: David Dawson has a BS in electrical engineering and a PhD in biology from the University of Pittsburgh and in biophysics from Yale. In his 41-year career, he taught at the University of Iowa, the University of Michigan, and the Oregon Health Science University where he was Chair of Physiology and Pharmacology. After his retirement in 2014, he began to study economic history and recently delivered the Hugh Dawson Lecture to the American Physiological Society, entitled “Membranes and Macroeconomics: What I learned from CFTR, Bob Dylan and Adam Smith.” This is the second course he has offered in the Acadia Senior College.

Site: Church of Our Father, 91 State Highway 3, Hulls Cove.

Myth, Psyche, and Us

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

7 weeks: September 12, 19, 26, October 3, 10, 17, 24
3 – 12 students

Who or what are the gods and goddesses? Why do their stories, after 3,000 years, continue to connect us with wisdom and meaning? Using the insights of psychiatrists Carl Jung and Jean Shinoda Bolen, the class will explore mythology and what the gods and goddesses have to do with life in the 21st century. No previous knowledge of mythology or psychology is necessary.

Instructor: William Bigelow has a MDiv degree from Andover-Newton Theological School and studied for five years at the C.G.Jung Institute, Boston. For thirty years, he served as minister and pastoral counselor for several churches on MDI. This course is his ninth for Acadia Senior College.

Site: Maine Coast Heritage Trust, 1034 State Highway 102, Somesville.

FALL 2019 CLASSES

AUGUST 26 – OCTOBER 25, 2019

---

Hollywood Goes to War: Censorship, Propaganda and Profits During World War II

1:00 – 3:00 p.m.

7 weeks: August 29, September 5, 12, 19, 26,
October 3, 10

10 – 16 students

With limitations on film stock, lumber, material for costumes, fuel and tires; with nightly blackouts and travel restrictions; and with (eventually) 12 percent of all film industry employees in the armed forces, how did they cope? How did the movie moguls keep up with near-record attendance levels (as high as 90 million a week)? And then, there was this new government agency, the Bureau of Motion Pictures, looking over their shoulders, and amazingly, suggesting changes to their scripts and sometimes saying right out loud that this or that movie shouldn't be made at all! Somehow, though, it all worked most of the time. Stories of the home front and of military action bolstered morale and resolve. Newsreels informed. Cartoons made people laugh. Class members will judge for themselves as they view some of the best of these. A "Further Reading and Viewing List" will be available, and, as usual, the class will be informal and fun.

Instructor: Steve Powell is owner of Bar Harbor Book Shop in Hulls Cove. He has a degree in history. In his spare time, he reads books and watches old movies. This is his 13th course for ASC.

FRIDAY

Post-Impressionism and Beyond

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

6 weeks: September 6, 13, 20, 27, October 4, 11
5 – 15 students

This course will take an in-depth look at the artists and their art that were directly derived from the Impressionist artists and their discoveries about color theory. The class will look at and discuss questions about such artists as Toulouse Lautrec, Cezanne, and the Studio of the South -Van Gogh and Gauguain, along with the Pointillists and Les Nabis.

Instructor: Mary Burnard has taught ASC courses since 2002. She has a BA and MA in art education and art history and has done work at the doctoral level in adult education. As a painter herself, Mary specializes in American Impressionist landscape painting and has exhibited her artwork frequently in Bar Harbor.

Site: Parish Hall in St. Saviour's Episcopal Church, 41 Mount Desert St., Bar Harbor.

Financial Workshop: Your Source for Financial Education

9:30 – 11:30 a.m.

4 sessions: September 13, 27, October 11, 25

3 – 8 students

NOTE: this class meets alternate weeks.

Do you have the information you need to make decisions about your financial goals? Financial education is an important step to achieving a better future. This class will address such topics as key principles of saving and investing in “Foundations of Investing,” steps to take to prepare for retirement exploring “Retirement by Design,” how insurance can help protect against unexpected life events in “Ready or Not? Prepare for the Unexpected,” and learn about the basics of estate planning with “Preparing Your Estate Plan.”

Instructor: Elise Frank is an Edward Jones financial advisor, who established their first branch office in Bar Harbor. She was awarded the coveted Zeke McIntyre Pioneer award, which is granted to new financial advisors who achieve high levels of success early in their careers. Only 125 out of 16,000 financial advisors are so recognized. Elise lives in Bar Harbor and is active in business and civic affairs. She is on the board of the MDI/Bar Harbor Rotary, the Bar Harbor Historical Society, and she volunteers with the Seal Cove Auto Museum and the Bar Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

Site: YWCA, 36 Mount Desert Street, Bar Harbor.

VARYING DATES

Viruses and Vaccines

1:00 – 3:00 p.m.

4 sessions in 2 weeks: Monday, August 26,
Wednesday, August 28, Tuesday, September 3, and
Thursday, September 5
5 – 20 students

NOTE: this class meets twice a week for two weeks on varying days.

Viruses must infect living cells to survive and propagate. They have successfully adapted to animals and plants over millennia of coexistence. Remarkably, two of the infections most dangerous to humans were controlled by vaccination even before the basic events of virus infections became known to scientists. This class will explain the events essential to any virus infection and how vaccines can serve to limit virus spread and speed recovery. Attention will be focused upon influenza, measles, polio, zika, hepatitis, the herpes family, and papilloma virus of cervical cancer. Problems of vaccine development for HIV and Ebola will be discussed.

Instructor: Phil Grimley received his MD from Albany Medical College, trained in medicine at Cornell University, and then specialized in virus-related research at the University of California and the National Cancer Institute (NCI). He gained experience in virology at Columbia University and performed independent research at NCI. Phil instructed medical students in the principles of disease for over thirty years at the Uniformed Services University, Maryland. More recently, he taught the science of viruses at the Johns Hopkins University Program for Adult Education.
